Event Overview

Stellar Hacks is an empty canvas. A zone, a place, an environment for high school students from around the bay to unleash their creativity in the form of programming. By bringing together these future Silicon Valley engineers, we will see the mass development of innovative and contemporary solutions to modern planning. Through tedious planning and commitment, our team has taken inspiration from other local events and partnered with the non-profit Child Rights and You (CRY) to make sure that these solutions bring benefit to underprivileged children around the world. With a collaboration with NGOs and programming talent from the bay, Stellar will empower students to paint their own Van Gogh on our canvas

Logistics

Stellar Hacks is scheduled to occur on March 30th at Foothill High School (Pleasanton, CA). The main goals of this event are to allow for a creative space where programming meets competition and nurtures collaboration. Students from 6th to 12th grade will be participating in a 12-hour competition where their goal is to impress the judges with the innovative and practical software project pertaining to the theme given. Stellar has a team of growing leaders who have immense dedication to making this dream a reality for all the students and will be aided by advisors, judges, and past event organizers, most of whom have successfully run a hackathon.

Sponsorship Value

Through integrated workshops, promotions, and events within the hackathon, your brand will go hand in hand with the minds of the future. While engaging with the community, culture, and modernization of programming your company will bring forth new skills, ideas, and inspiration for the entire event. While we may be a smaller avenue of interest, the output of this sponsorship would not be monetary but rather benefit the coterie of programmers we will see. The impact on the tech community will be beyond measurable. With your investment, you will make a direct contribution to the future proletariat who are bound to evolve into leaders of STEM in the coming century.

Fund Use

The main purpose of Stellar is to fund Child Rights and You (CRY) and due to their 501(c)(3) status in America, all profits, donations, and sponsorships are tax-deductible. The funds collected from the sponsorship will be put towards the venue, prizes, and food needed to maintain this event. This encourages the inflow of people, creating a larger influence for Stellar within the programming community proportionally with increased attention towards your brand.
